'The Woman Of the Confederacy'

ACCEPTED DESIGN FOR MEMORIAL TO WOMEN OF THE CONFEDERACY. SUBMITTED BY MISS BELLE KINNEY

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 7.—Several of the southern states already have monuments under way for the purchase of the statue, the heroism of the southern woman, which the design of Miss Belle Kinney has been accepted by the committee. Miss Kinney will receive $50,000 for each statue, and has a guarantee that not less than ten will be taken. A local art critic describes the design thus:

"Miss Kinney has marvellously shown the spirit which actuated the women of the south in the '60s in her beautiful group of three figures, composed of Fame, seated in the center; on her left a dying confederate soldier, and to her right the confederate woman."

"Miss Kinney does not separate the soldier and the woman, but shows them together on the battlefield, moved by the same spirit, the same loyalty and with the same hope burning in their hearts."

"The soldier is depicted dying, but with his last strength raising the confederate flag; the woman, with all the hope, love and devotion of body and soul strained into her desire, is trying to place victory on the breast of the soldier."

"In this typical southern woman, refined, aristocratic and delicately beautiful, is depicted the strength and loyalty of a great soul—loyalty which makes every effort possible and every sacrifice sweet for the soldier and his cause."

ent principle which will insure the uniformity of decision essential to just judgment.

What the Law Says.

In considering violations of the anti-trust law, we must not forget that the law makes unlawful methods of carrying on business, which, before its passage, were regarded as evidence of business sagacity and success, and that they were denounced in this act, not because of their intrinsic morality but because of the dangerous results toward which they tended.

In dealing with the men who have used the methods condemned by the statute, we may well facilitate a change by them in the method of doing business and enable them to bring it back into the zone of lawfulness without business sacrifice and sacrifice of management by which cost of production has been materially lessened and our foreign trade greatly increased.

Imposed New Law.

I therefore recommend the enactment by congress of a general law providing for the formation of corporations to engage in trade and commerce among states and with foreign nations, protecting them from undue interference by the states and regulating their activities so as to prevent the recurrence under national auspices of those abuses which have arisen under state control. Such a law should provide for the issue of stock of such corporations to an amount equal only to the cash paid in for the stock and, if the stock is issued for property, then for a fair valuation, ascertained under approval and supervision of federal authority.

It should subject the real and personal property only of such corporations to the same taxation as is imposed by the states, which it may be situated upon other similar property located therein and it should require such corporations to file full and complete reports of their operations with the department of commerce and labor at regular intervals.

Corporations organized under this act should be prohibited from acquiring and holding stock in other corporations (except for special reasons upon approval by the proper federal authorities).

To Create National Corporations.

If the prohibition of the anti-trust act against combinations in restraint of trade is to be effectively enforced, it is essential that the national government shall provide for the creation of national corporations to carry on a legitimate business throughout the United States. The conflicting laws of the different states of the union with respect to foreign corporations, make it difficult, if not impossible for one corporation to comply with the requirements so as to carry on business in a number of different states.

Does Not Repeat Sherman Law.

The measure contemplated does not repeat the Sherman anti-trust law and is not to be so framed as to permit the wrongs which it is the purpose of that law to prevent, but only to foster a continuance and advance of the highest industrial efficiency without permitting industrial abuses.

The government is now trying to dissolve some of these combinations, and it is not the intention of the government to assist in the least degree in its effort to end these combinations which are today monopolizing the commerce of this country. It is not the intention of the government to permit monopoly to exist under federal incorporation or to transfer to the protecting wing of the federal government, the state corporation now violating the Sherman act.

But it is not and should not be the policy of the government to prevent reasonable concentration of capital which is necessary to the economic development of trade.

Believes It Constitutional.

There are those who doubt the constitutionality of such federal incorporation. The regulation of the interstate and foreign commerce is certainly confirmed in the fullest measure upon congress and if the purpose of securing in the most thorough manner the kind of regulation, congress shall insist that it may provide and authorize certain agencies to carry on that commerce, it would seem to be within its power.

Even those who are willing to concede that the supreme court may sustain such federal incorporation are inclined to oppose it on the ground of its tendency to the enlargement of the federal power at the expense of the power of the states. It is a sufficient answer to this argument to say that no other method can be suggested which offers federal protection on the one hand and close federal supervision on the other hand of these great corporations that are as wide as the country and are entirely unlimited in their business by state lines.

Only Course Open.

PRESIDENT TAFT THINKS FEDERAL INCORPORATION WILL CURB TRUSTS

ness world of a rigid enforcement of the law in accordance with the construction of the court and fears a panic and business chaos must follow. In spite of these possibilities he nevertheless regards it as the duty of the executive to enforce the statute.

He says: There has been a marked tendency in business in this country for 40 years last past towards a combination of company and plant in manufacture, sale and transportation. The moving causes have been several:

First, it has rendered possible great economy; second, it has reduced the probability of excessive competition; and third, if the combination has been extensive enough, the combiners have secured a monopoly and complete control of prices.

The increase in the capital of a business for the purpose of reducing the cost of production has become essential in modern progress as the change from the hand tool to the machine. When, therefore, we come to construe the object of congress in adopting the so-called "Sherman anti-trust act" in 1890 we must infer that the evil aimed at was not the mere bigness of the enterprise but the aggregation of capital and plants with the express or implied intent to restrain interstate or foreign commerce or to monopolize it in whole or in part.

Competition Destroyed. Monopoly destroys competition utterly and the restraint of the full and free operation of competition has a tendency to restrain commerce and trade.

A mere incidental restraint of trade and competition is not within the inhibition of the Sherman act, but it is where the combination or conspiracy or contract is inevitably and directly a substantial restraint of competition and so a restraint of trade that the statute is violated.

It is possible those manufacturing and selling useful articles of merchandise as to conduct their business is not to violate the inhibitions of the anti-trust law and yet to secure themselves the benefits of the economies of management and of production due to the concentration under one control of large capital and many plants.

If they use no other inducement than the constant low price of their product and its good quality to attract custom and their business is a profitable one, medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by all druggists.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

When the blood becomes overcharged with uric acid it continually grows weaker, more acid, and poorer in nourishing qualities. The nerves, muscles and joints, instead of receiving their necessary nutriment from the circulation are gradually filled with the sharp uric impurity with which the circulation is loaded, and the pains and aches of Rheumatism are the natural result. No amount of rubbing, or the application of external medicines can have any direct and curative effect on the blood; the most to be expected from such treatment is temporary relief from the pains and aches. There is but one way to cure Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid impurity. S.S.S. is the proper treatment, because it goes down and attacks the disease at its head, and by filtering out every particle of the uric matter and strengthening and enriching the blood, cures Rheumatism in every form. S.S.S. changes the sour, acid-burdened blood to a rich, healthy stream, which quiets the pain-racked nerves, muscles and joints, cools the feverish flesh, gently removes the cause and drives Rheumatism from the system. S.S.S. reaches inherited cases as well as those which have been acquired, and good results are always experienced from its use. Special book on Rheumatism containing many valuable suggestions for rheumatic sufferers and any medical advice free to all who write.
